Policy for Use of Meeting Room

The lower level meeting room (seating 125) is available during regular library hours to non-profit organizations engaged in education, cultural, intellectual, or charitable activities. Meetings can not be scheduled more frequently than once per month, or for periods exceeding four hours per meeting. All meetings must be open to the public. No admission fees may be charged.

Any request to use the meeting room outside the regular hours or involving refreshments must be submitted to the Board of Trustees in writing. Such requests will be considered at the regular Trustees' meeting held on the second Monday of each month.

All meetings must conclude in time to vacate the room at least 15 minutes before library closing. All organizations are responsible for arranging chairs and tables to meet their needs. Any use of audio-visual and other electrical equipment must be approved in advance. It is suggested that a representative from your organization view the room ahead of time to plan your arrangements.

If the premises are abused, the library reserves the right to restrict future privileges. Reimbursement for any damages is also expected.
